KISS & TAIL: VALENTINE'S DAY AT THE ZOO

NORFOLK, Va. – The Virginia Zoo will host a special Valentine's Day program 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 15, 2014.

Kiss & Tail is an adults-only opportunity to learn about animal mating, dating and reproductive habits in an honest and humorous forum. The evening includes wine, appetizers, a Zoo tour and a presentation on animal reproductive behavior by Tidewater Community College biology professor Lisa Behm.

"It's a fun event where couples can enjoy some food and wine while learning a little something about animal attraction," said Greg Bockheim, the Zoo's executive director.

Holding a master's degree in Biology from Old Dominion University, Behm is a former zookeeper and animal registrar at the Virginia Zoo, in which capacity she was also responsible for the veterinary clinic and assisting the Zoo's veterinarian. She began teaching evenings at TCC while working at the Zoo, becoming a full-time biology faculty member in 2003.

Space for the event is limited and preregistration is required. Ages 21 and up only. Cost per pair is $45 for Zoo members and $55 for nonmembers. Check-in begins promptly at 3 p.m. The program is expected to end around 6 p.m., leaving plenty of time after for dinner reservations and to discuss the day's adventure. For more information or to register, please visit www.virginiazoo.org or call 757-441-2374, ext. 253.
